Freight Boat Edith Beached

With 32,000 Cases of Salmon Aboard Strikes Gravel Beach

Boat Not Damaged

About eleven o'clock Monday evening, the Alaska Steamship Company's large freighter, Edith, grounded on the lower end of Level Island, about twenty miles from Wrangell.

The U. S. S. Burnside, which was passing north on its way to repair the Valdez-Sitka cable, is standing by the beached bark. Several gasboats from Wrangell left Wednesday morning to assist in the work of floating the freighter on the increasing tides by transferring part of her cargo to scows.

There was an element of good luck mixed with the accident. The Edith went safely between two outlying reefs and grounded on about the only piece of gravel and shell beach on Level Island. Had she struck one of the reefs she would have been doomed but as she lays she will probably be floated off without much damage.

Word was received here yesterday that the Edith was safely pulled off the bar at high tide Tuesday night by the U. S. S. Burnside and is continuing on her course little worse for her mishap.

Busy

You've heard about these working men. One day last week, Leo McCormack took his new shotgun to the flats and left Ben Hill in charge of the wharf. Gartrell, who works the wireless, was quite ill with tonsillitis at the same time, so Hill volunteered to take care of that office too. Then the City of Seattle and Jefferson came to port with the usual freight and passenger traffic. Between the Cable office and the Wharf and the Wireless station was Hill with his pocket full of keys and his head full of passenger tickets, manifests, freight bills and wireless messages. But the fog cleared at last and McCormack came back with his gun and the world is moving regularly again.

Get After The Booze Peddlers

Local Authorities and U. S. Inspectors Got After Liquor Traffic

Four Cases Since Sept. 28

The local authorities and U. S. inspectors have been busy of late trying to round up the principals in the liquor-to-native traffic of this vicinity. So far, four cases have been brought up for hearing in Commissioner's Court.

On Sept. 29, Ah Kuieg, a Chinaman from Klawock was given a hearing and held over to appear before the Grand Jury on a charge of furnishing liquor to natives. Wednesday, Oct. 4th, three cases were brought up for hearing. The principals were, Chas. Stevenson, engineer of the J. H. Sisson, T. J. Kruzer and Mrs. A. Phillips. The Case of Mrs. Phillips was dismissed for lack of evidence. That of T. J. Kruzer was postponed to give the defendant time to secure witnesses in his own cause.

The case of Charles Stevenson, engineer of the cannery tender, J. H. Sisson, was heard Wednesday afternoon. Several witnesses were presented but the case was dismissed.

The defendants and witnesses in these cases were brought to Wrangell by Deputy Marshall, Schnabel and E. Hagler, of Juneau.

Black Fox Goes Up The River

Tuesday morning the Black Fox started up the Stikine river bound for Telegraph Creek; B. C. The following took passage for Telegraph, F. D. Cheny, Nat Ritchie and Ole Coolihan.

Jurors From Wrangell

The following is a list of Grand and Petit Jurors from Wrangell that are called to Ketchikan on Oct. 23 and 30:

Grand Jurors: J. C. Martindale; Dr. C. A. Emery; Charles Benjamin and L. M. Lyons;

Petit Jurors: F. A. Scott; F. Nye and Jacob Olson.

Successful Dance

With a happy remembrance of a certain hard time dance given the townspeople by the A. P. A. Cannery a few weeks ago; the town people got together last week and arranged for a future ball at the Red Men's Hall on Friday evening. To say that the dance was successful is putting it mildly. A large and jolly party attended from both town and cannery; and since that evening, contentment that follows work well done is the feeling enjoyed by Wrangell people.

All committees are deserving of congratulations and the committee on arrangements wish to express their thanks to Mrs. J. C. Ensley, Mrs. Arthur Leonard and Mrs. Jas. Walton for their assistance with the refreshments and to the merchants, who, by their contributions, made the ball possible.

Gets Fine Heads

Marshal Bond, of Seattle, who went up the Stikine a few weeks ago to look over some mining property, came down the river last Saturday.

He brought out some fine heads as the result of a side trip into the big game country. Two caribou, two sheep, a moose and a bear falling to his lot.

Mr. Bond left Monday on the Humboldt for his home in Seattle, much pleased with his trip to the headwaters of the Stikine.

The tug Chilkat, Capt. Hyvarine, which is towing the Star of Greenland, will wait about two weeks and tow the Loring ship outside before going to San Francisco.

School Notes

Weston Dalgity, Correspondent

It's all over now. The danger of the first monthly examinations are now a thing of the past. The run for the highest average in the different grades was in many cases, very close. The names of those who rank first, with their grade and average, are as follows: Weston Dalgity, Senior, 97; Talitha Ensley, Seventh, 96; Wallace Sinclair, Fifth, 93; Lawrance Case, Fourth grade, Edith Horgheim, Third grade, Albert Tervo, Second grade, May Goodrich, First grade, Olivia Thomesen, Primer class, Elizabeth Churchill, Chart class.

As the pupils are seated according to the average they make in examinations, there was some difficulty in seating pupils who had the same average.

On Monday morning the school children came to school and were not disappointed when they found out that the teachers were unavoidably detained on board the gas-cruiser Duckland, at the mouth of the Stikine River. After waiting around until nine o'clock the children went home. The unexpected holiday was joyously received but was cut short by the arrival of the party from the Duckland. They had rowed home in the life boats, and the children found themselves back to school in the afternoon.

They Were All "Pills."

One of the fashionable east side churches recently witnessed a funny incident at a choir rehearsal. They were preparing for the following Sunday morning a beautiful selection, the first words of which were, "I am a pilgrim." It so happened that the music divided the word "pilgrim" and made a pause after the syllable. The effect was most amusing. The soprano sang in a high key "I am a pil" and then stopped. The tenor acknowledged that he was a "pil" and when the bass came thundering in with a like declaration, "I am a pil" it was too much for the gravity of the singers, and they roared. No amount of practice could get them past the fatal pause without an outburst, and the piece had to be given up.—Musical World.

Clever Dwarfs.

Richard Gibson and his wife, who flourished in the seventeenth century, were a remarkable pair of dwarfs, quite apart from their inches, which combined barely made up seven feet. Both were clever painters of miniatures, and Gibson was drawing master to the daughters of James II. At their wedding, which was arranged by Henrietta Maria, Charles I. gave the bride away, the queen placed a valuable diamond ring on her finger, and Edmund Waller, the court poet, wrote a poem in honor of the occasion. Gibson was seventy-four when he passed away, while his widow died at the advanced age of eighty-nine years.

Madagascar's Two Climates.

The island of Madagascar has two distinct climates, two classes of natives and two classes of fauna and flora. The island is about the size of France. Along the coast it is tropical and malarious, and the natives are darker than in the interior. The interior is a high tableland and mountainous. There the climate is cooler and the natives smaller and lighter in color than on the coast. But in the interior they are more intelligent, and they rule the island.

Obliging.

Excited Author (rushing behind the scenes)—Why are you cutting out the second and third acts of my play? Manager—I am not cutting anything out. I'm merely varying the order of the acts. Several influential persons in the audience have asked me if it would not be possible to have the hero die in the next act.—Chicago Tribune.

Trip To The Glacier

Anna Lewis,

A party consisting of nine left on the Duckland Sunday morning for the Stikine Glacier. The party proved to be very jolly and after traveling for some time in the fog we reached Andrews place. The fog had then lifted and the sun shone so brightly that we were able to sit out on the deck and watch the beautiful scenery.

On reaching our destination we were taken up a small slough where we were able to land and roam on the beach while Capt. Johansen and the mate rowed the boats on up the slough where they landed and fixed the boats so the Capt. and Mate caught up with us as we started for the lake which we did not reach as it was getting late and we had to start for home.

A number of pictures were taken of the crowd before starting for the boat. On reaching the boat a number of the girls got lunch ready for the others and after lunch we started for home.

About four o'clock the fog settled again and was so thick that we could not see where we were headed and were taken upon a sand bar. About six o'clock one of our girls got busy and before long had some supper for the ship wrecked crew. After supper the party sang songs to pass the long night away. At eleven o'clock we made our beds on the floor, which was comfortable for about fifteen minutes. The night passed away very slowly for those that had to sleep on the floor. At six o'clock we were able to find half a dozen eggs, four slices of bread and a few cold potatoes left from the night before which we warmed for breakfast.

After breakfast we prepared ourselves for a long ride in the row boats and about half past eight we were on our way home. The mate after eating so many high bush cranberries was rather weak and unable to pull hard so we had to drift down the river as far as possible. We soon reached the Garnet Ledge where we stopped a short time to get warm. While crossing the channel to the main land it started to rain and the girls soon lost all their natural curls.

We reached home about twelve o'clock, wet, hungry and tired but with many remembrances of new scenes and experiences to repay us for our trip.

Just Like Eggs.

Miss A.—So your wife keeps you continually in hot water, you poor man. Mr. B.—Oh, that's all right. We husbands are like eggs. Keep us in hot water and we become hardened.—Boston Transcript.

A Long Run.

Property Man—Did your company have a long run in Speedunk? Comedian—They chased us only two miles out.—Chicago News.
